High Street: Back to the drawing board

BY NICK KOSTOV

RESIDENTS in Haverhill have been at loggerheads over the future of the High Street for the best part of 50 years.

And this week the long-running feud took another twist as the borough council turned its back on its draft plans to work towards pedestrianising it.

Last year, it seemed the issue might soon be resolved when the borough council pledged to take up the future of the High Street in its Vision 2031 document – a masterplan for the future of the borough.

In the last draft of the plan, published in March 2012, council chiefs included an action to “pedestrianise and enhance the High Street”.

But on Tuesday it released the latest draft and there was no mention of pedestrianisation.

Instead, the draft stated simply that Vision 2031 would work to “enhance the high street”.

The change has led to accusations the borough council is adding to the uncertainty surrounding the High Street and may be putting off businesses and potential investors.

The town council recently conducted two surveys on this issue which drew a total of 1,200 responses, 70 per cent of which were in favour of pedestrianising the High Street.

There remains, however, a vocal minority of people who are against closure of the High Street, particularly on a Saturday, and who are strongly opposed to extending this to the rest of the week.

The borough council distanced itself from the controversy by saying the pedestrianisation of streets was the job of the county council, which is in charge of traffic and travel, and that is why they had removed any mention of it from the document.

But Will Austin, Haverhill town clerk, was disappointed by the decision. He said the Vision 2031 document included a number of other aspirations which were not to do with the borough council.

In a bid to resolve the issue, the county council has now pledged to hold a public consultation in September to ensure the High Street is revamped “to the benefit of all”.

Cllr Guy McGregor, cabinet member for roads and transport at Suffolk county council, said the problems linked to pedestrianising the High Street were “really pretty serious” but that all options “remained on the table”.

Meanwhile several other changes were made to the document after two rounds of extensive public consultations.

One of the biggest alterations involves a residential development which will be moved from the site of the old Castle Hill Middle School, near School Lane, to the playing fields next to Chivers Road.

This comes after concerns from residents that the development would be too far from other housing estates and may lead to traffic congestion during peak times.

Under the new plans, the site of the existing school buildings would be converted to open space to compensate for the area lost to housing.

Plans for a public open space at the junction of Chivers Road and Chimswell Way, which included plans for a potential housing

BUILDING work has started on the new free school for pupils with special needs.

The £4 million Churchill Special Free School, located next to Churchill Avenue in the grounds of the Samuel Ward Academy, is due to welcome its first batch of 17 students in September this year.

The plans for the new school were first shown to the public in February and with planning permission now granted, the new school is on schedule to be finished this summer.

The school will welcome students with speech, language and communication needs, and over the next four years, it will increase its capacity for students aged 8 to 18 from 17 to 70.

Georgina Ellis, the current headteacher at Wickhambrook Primary School, officially took over the running of the new special school on April 1.

She will juggle both jobs for the time being, but said she has confidence in the staff at Wickhambrook, which has a dyslexic centre, to help her manage and turn the project into a success.

Mrs Ellis said she had always had an interest in special needs and the new facilities were long overdue.

She added: "Specialist provisions are at last being made available for pupils in the greatest need of support.

"This is an important day for Haverhill and the surrounding area".

Students with special needs currently have to travel to Ipswich, Bury St Edmunds or Sudbury to go to school.

The intention is to integrate the students at the new free school, many of whom will be on the autistic spectrum or have Aspergers syndrome, with the other children at Samuel Ward Academy wherever possible.

Some of them will be able to spend as much as 80 per cent of their time in mainstream classes.

The original bid to host a new free school for children with special needs was made in January last year.

At the time, the headteacher of the Samuel Ward Academy, Mr Howard Lay, explained it was partially motivated by new research which showed the number of children developing special needs was growing due to improving survival rates of babies born early.

He added: "The overall aim of the school is to fill a gap in special provision in the Haverhill locality, thus increasing the choices available to families and carers and improving the lives of local children and families."

The new school's vision will reflect the values of Churchill: "Difficulties mastered are opportunities won."

Samuel Ward Academy, in Chalkstone Way, was crowned the outstanding academy of the year at a national award ceremony last December.

development, also met with widespread concern and have now been scrapped entirely.

Residents will have a final chance to comment on the revised draft between June 18 and August 9.

The plans will then be passed on to an independent planning inspector.

The Vision 2031 document is being drafted to provide a framework for the expected growth in the borough and prevent developers making speculative planning applications in unsuitable places.

It includes details of how many homes are needed, where they can be built, and over what period.

The latest draft vision document can be viewed online at www.stedmundsbury.gov.uk/vision2031.

Serial offender admits assault on policeman

A MAN who had been banned from every pub and club in Suffolk and Norfolk admitted assaulting a policeman this week.

Daniel Dale, of Boxford Court, Haverhill, admitted the charge at the Magistrates court in Bury St Edmunds on Tuesday.

He also admitted charges of using threatening abusive or insulting words or behaviour and obstructing a police constable in the execution of duty.

The offences took place on April 18 after a policeman was called to an incident in the area.

Dale was handed a 12-week prison sentence, suspended for a year.

A judge told him last year it would be "a minor miracle" if he stayed out of prison.

The day the circus came to school

PUPILS, parents and teachers spent the day clowning around when a circus came to school.

There was slapstick humour from clowns Happy and Pip, mesmerizing trapeze stunts and breath-taking sword tricks at Barnardiston Hall Preparatory School near Haverhill on Friday.

Younger children took part in a competition to design the front of the circus programme while older students were asked to select and run an entertainment stall of their choice.

School principal Colonel Keith Boulter, dressed up as a clown and threw a sponge at headmaster Tim Dodgson in the stocks.

Mr Dodgson said: "It was a wonderful afternoon for all."

Council legal fight gone for a Burton

HAVERHILL Town Council has blinked first in its ongoing feud with the county council over the future of the Burton Centre.

After spending £2,500 on legal advice to challenge the decision by the county council to hand the unused building in Camps Road to St Nicholas Hospice, the town council said on Tuesday it had chosen to abandon its plans to pursue legal action.

The decision will raise eyebrows as to why the money was spent on the legal advice in the first place – particularly as it seemed to show the town council had a strong case.

Will Austin, town clerk, said the town council remained "deeply unhappy about the way in which this matter has been handled".

But he added town councillors felt legal action would hinder St Nicholas Hospice Care with its work.

And the fact the two feuding councils are now in discussions over the former magistrates' court site nearby also played a big role.

The councils are partners in the ONE project, which includes plans for the creation of a single youth service in the town, delivered from one venue.

The town council had wanted this new base to be housed in the

BY NICK KOSTOV

editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

Burton centre, but this was rebuffed. Discussions over housing it on the former magistrates' court site close to the Burton Centre seem to be going smoothly.

The county council provided a tour of the premises last month, a move seen as "positive" by town councillors, and more talks are planned this month.

The legal argument set out is based around the county council allegedly changing reasons why the building was given to the charity and not to the town council.

According to the document, county council chiefs originally said the bid to house the youth centre in the building had been unsuccessful because it relied too heavily on public money.

But after the winning bid was shown to rely on almost £500,000 of cash from the Department of Health, a different reason was given – that the St Nicholas Hospice bid had been chosen because it had canvassed local service-users' opinions and had other income streams.

The legal advice states it may have been possible to argue the county's council's reasoning was "inadequate" and made after it had already accepted the hospice's proposal.

Mr Austin added: "Councillors' withdrawal from such a strong legal case serves to underline their desire to avoid a protracted legal process at great cost to the public purse".

Work to transform the old Burton Centre into West Suffolk's first community outreach centre started recently.

The hospice will eventually be the first of several community outreach centres where people can seek medical services without the need to travel to Bury St Edmunds.

Work is expected to be completed in March 2014, with access to some services, such as counselling, available as early as this autumn.

'MAYBE WE'VE PROVIDED SOME ANSWERS': New Haverhill county councillor Tony Brown says UKIP is the party for the working class
Picture by Keith Jones

UKIP grabs two of three county seats

BY NICK KOSTOV

editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

THE UK Independence Party (UKIP) has sensationally taken two of the town's three county council seats from the Conservatives.

The Tories previously held both seats in the Haverhill Cangle ward, as well as the Haverhill East & Kedington seat.

But Tim Marks and Philip French (both Con) decided not to stand for re-election in the Haverhill Cangle ward, leaving the door open for UKIP.

Anne Gower (Con) provided the only bit of good news for her party by winning the first seat in Haverhill Cangle ward, gaining 22.48 per cent of the vote.

But in a spectacular three-way run-off for the second seat, Julian Flood (UKIP) finally got the better of Maureen Byrne (Lab) and Karen Richardson (Con) after two recounts.

The vote was originally called for the Tories over UKIP by a margin of two votes, but after the recounts, which Cllr Flood called "one of the most stressful parts of my life", the final result was announced: Julian Flood by 15 votes.

Cllr Flood said he was stunned and delighted by the result: "There was a big Conservative majority so I thought I would be a good third – I just hoped to send a message".

The third seat was not so close, with UKIP candidate Tony Brown getting 40 per cent of the vote to become the first UKIP candidate to represent the Haverhill East & Kedington ward.

Cllr Flood is a former Royal Air Force man from Coney Weston, near Bury St Edmunds.

He stood in Haverhill because he believed people who wanted to vote UKIP should have that option.

He has been to the town a handful of times on walking tours and – although he said it was "horribly un-British" – he will spend the next six months knocking on doors and meeting residents. His main area of interest is energy policy, which he said the major parties have taken in the wrong direction for a number of years.

Cllr Brown, the other UKIP winner, is from Haverhill. He said people voted for UKIP for positive reasons and not simply as a protest vote against the other major parties.

He added: "Speaking to people, the level of dissatisfaction with the main parties is huge; people are pretty annoyed.

"Maybe we've provided some of the answers they're looking for – we're not the party of big banks or big business, we're the party of the normal working class and we've taken votes off both Labour and the Tories."

The town is represented by three councillors on Suffolk County Council – two are now from UKIP.

The other parties were disappointed and town and borough councillor Maureen Byrne, who came joint third in the Haverhill Cangle ward, said UKIP were promising things they could not deliver.

She added: "Never mind, if that's what people have voted for then you reap what you sow – people in a few years might well regret this but it will be too late.

"At least it shows democracy is working because the people have got what they voted for."

Treasures found at largest dig in town's history

THE findings of the biggest archaeological excavations ever undertaken in the town were revealed for the first time last night.

Archaeologist Michelle Collings said artefacts from the 1st century AD right through to the post-medieval period had been found.

Domestic pottery, animal bone and quernstones, for grinding grain by hand, indicated that our ancestors here kept animals and grew crops nearby almost 2,000 years ago.

The 4.5-hectare excavation revealed that by the 5th century AD, the booming farm had gone out of use – but a small hall and a collection of copper brooches, as well as a bead necklace, indicated the land was still used at that time.

Interestingly, some of the Roman ditches seem to have survived right through to recent times, and can still be traced on the layout of the modern field boundaries.

James Newbould, project manager, said the site in Haverhill was "significant", and that people had lived here continuously since before the Roman conquest.

The ongoing work is taking place on the land earmarked for Haverhill Research Park.

The full results of the dig will not be published until next year.

HERE COME THE GIRLS: The Bumpstead Boobettes will take part in the Moonwalk in London

Boobettes hit the charity trail

WHAT started as four friends walking for fitness grew to become the Bumpstead Boobettes – a group of 23 women determined to make a difference.

All of the group members know someone who has fought breast cancer and they have come together to raise awareness and funds for breast cancer causes.

On May 11 at night they will be in London, in their bras, doing the 26.2 mile Moonwalk.

So far, just over £3,000 has been raised through personal sponsorship, a spy trail treasure hunt, and various collection tins in Bumpstead.

Joanne Donegan, one of the Boobettes, said: "One week to go and the hard part of the training is done."

Show must go on – and it's got a rival

WE may have not one, but two Haverhill Shows in July this year.

The town council announced yesterday that it was teaming up with local businesses to put on a new show for the town.

But Mick Driver, who has organised the show for the last five years, said the wheels were already in motion for his show – and it may be too late to stop it.

Mr Driver has booked the recreation ground for July 6 and 7 and many of the rides and attractions were booked long in advance.

He said his committee will make a decision within the next few days whether to press ahead with the show.

In an emotional interview, Mr Driver promised to produce the bank statements to show where the money had gone and said his last donation to Lamp H was £1,500 in 2011, not 2010, and that he had made a loss at last year's show because of the rain.

He added: "The volunteers that do this don't make a penny, and when I hear the accusations it makes me feel angry, it makes me feel upset, it also makes me laugh".

"People think a show just happens but the committee members have worked hard for years to give the people of Haverhill a good day out."

Meanwhile, the town council has thrown its weight behind a new show, to be led by David Doughty, 41, who has a photographic business in town.

He will be joined on a steering committee by other business owners including florist Fiona Pilcher, David & Jane Ellis of Ellis Interiors, Debby Strowger, a jeweller, and Mick Tokley from The Mortgage Centre.

The Recreation Ground has been booked for this new show on Sunday, July 21 with more details set to be announced in the coming weeks.

Cllr Gary Stroud said the town council was keen to ensure that the event would be run effectively, and that all money was properly accounted for.

Maureen Byrne, chairman of disabilities charity LampH, traditionally the show's flagship beneficiary, denied the show received money from Mr Driver in 2011 and said she was considering whether to seek legal advice.

She wrote a letter to Mr Driver on March 4 stating: "Before we take further advice on these matters, please advise LAMP H where the charities monies are being held and by whom."

Mrs Byrne said she has had no written reply.

A VINTAGE 1960s mobile cinema is to stop off in Haverhill.

The 22-seater van, which will weave its way around East Anglia, will roll into town at 3.30pm on Monday, June 3 and stay at the Market Square until 6.30pm.

The tour comes as part of the 'Archive Alive' project to share archive film on the road.

As it winds its way from Clacton to King's Lynn, the cinema will welcome people aboard and offer free screenings of local archive films from the last century.

The archive film footage has been researched and selected for digitisation by the Heritage Economic and Regeneration Trust.

I feel humbled by your support

I WOULD just like to say a big thank you to the people of Haverhill and especially Haverhill East and Kedington, Barnadiston who voted for me and UKIP on Thursday.

It was a truly humbling experience to stand in front of the count tables and watch the votes being counted. I saw the vote slips with a cross beside my name and could imagine the people who came home from work and took time out from their busy schedules, the less able, the first time voters, the jobless, the pensioners... to tell you the truth, it brought a lump to my throat.

I have got Haverhill in my DNA; I was brought up here. I have met some of the other councillors in the town and they all seem like good people with the interests of the town at heart.

I will work with whoever, from any party or organisation without prejudice for the benefit of the town.

I am a UKIP councillor but not instructed by them in any way on local issues – I can do what I think is best for the town.

I am on a bit of a learning curve at the moment so will not try to jump in with both feet at this stage but will hopefully over the coming weeks I will pick up the pace, and in the meantime I will attend any meetings or event I'm invited to.

There are some issues that I am aware of i.e. the big one of town pedestrianisation and which option is the best.

Also, the on-going problems of the traffic situation in Hamlet Road, it would be good to work with people to sort that out. What I would like to see would be free parking (it's not so much the cost it is the hassle of having to find coins and then worry that you do not accidentally exceed your time which makes people just go and park in Tesco's and do their shopping there).

I'd like some sort of rate relief for first time shop owners in the town to encourage the individual trader to return – maybe some deal could be done with landlords where they also can do their bit instead of leaving a shop empty?

There is money for this sort of thing as the council have found the money to offer a huge incentive for the first business that moves to the research park.

Anyway these are all things that need to be talked about.

Once again, many thanks for putting your trust in me, I think Thursday was a great day for British politics and Haverhill made a big contribution to that.

We proved that voting does change things and is worth the effort. There is now a national debate on a lot of the issues that we raised and the bigger parties have had to listen – you could say that the county elections should have been about mostly county issues but the electorate obviously thought that the national issues were more important that's why they voted for UKIP.

The other parties with larger resources and established local organisations did campaign on more local issues but the voters still made the choice to vote for us – we did not have access to many resources. I paid £60 for my own leaflets and started leafleting on my own; it was only after I started that like-minded local people very kindly started helping us. I think at the end of the day that Thursday was a big wake up call to politicians locally and nationally and that can only be a good thing.

For once the people of Haverhill have made their voice heard loud and clear, I think we can now build on this and will be starting off a local branch of UKIP and hoping to contest all town, district elections with a better organised team with good local policies dictated by local people and not the big party machines.

Come and join us, it could be really rewarding and you could change the status quo.

Please don't forget the Girl Guides!

WITH reference to last week's story about the Scouts and Guides' fund-raising campaign: it's a shame it refers to Scouting only.

Although our organisations were both founded by Lord and Lady Baden Powell, Girl Guiding is very different from Scouting.

We do have similar traditions and we do similar activities, but the main difference is that Girl Guiding offers a safe environment for girls only. Scouting used to be for boys only but it opened its doors up to girls when there numbers were on the decline some years ago.

Guiding and Scouting do work in partnership with one another and we have lots of joint facilities locally and nationally.

A huge thank you to a very kind lady

THIS is to say a very big thank you to the kind lady who I met while out shopping on Friday, April 26.

After seeing I didn't have enough money to pay for all of my shopping, she pressed a £10 note into my hand and said "God bless you".

I was amazed and overwhelmed by her kindness.

Thank you again,

THE annual parochial church meeting took place on April 25.

This was an opportunity to look back over the past year, look forward to what is to come, elect wardens, PCC members and Deanery Synod reps.

It was heard £1,300 will be needed to repair the northern stone wall round the churchyard. The western wall also needs repairing. Cost unknown.

The annual flower festival will be held on June 21-23. The theme is 'from the bookshelf'.

The church will have a new curate on June 30. Bridget will join the church and get to know members of the congregation.

Messy church, for small children and their families, was held on April 21, in church. It is now going to be a regular feature each month. The next one will be on Sunday, May 19 at 2pm.

There will be a house to house collection in Linton for Christian Aid between May 12-18.

■ Keep Fit: Slimming World sessions are being held at the Cathodeon Centre on Wednesdays at 7.30pm. Just turn up or contact Ally on (01223) 892931.

■ Car Parking: For many years there have been problems with cars parking outside the Co-op. Delivery lorries are often unable to park until the cars are moved. There are yellow lines, but these are often ignored.

Cambridge City Council has suggested that a specific loading area is a possibility. Linton residents were asked to submit their views by April 30, and there will now be a further discussion.

■ Shop: A new shop has opened in Linton. The Linton Kitchen at 30, High Street is a food-related shop which sells local produce from Cambridgeshire small suppliers. Fresh vegetables are on sale, plus preserves, variety of hot drinks, sandwiches, delicious homemade cakes and light lunches. The shop is open from 8am-6pm, Tuesday-Saturday, and 10am-3pm on Sunday.

■ Parish council: At the last parish council meeting on April 23, Linton councillors were advised that an audit of the village hall recommended either replacing the existing building with a modern timber building on an alternative site and selling the existing site, or a total refurbishment of the hall as it stands.

The trustees have been advised that 'doing nothing' is not an option.

They have agreed to start a programme of refurbishment by improving the toilet for the disabled, fireproofing the kitchen serving hatch and replacing the kitchen urn with a point of contact hot water

The trustees will be advertising the need for financial support in the Linton News – the village newspaper.

Before the council can proceed with plans for compulsory purchase of all or part of the seven-acre site in Horseheath Road for use as allotments, a formal offer must be made to buy or lease the land owned by the Diocese of Ely.

Enid Bald listed plans for an annual tree assessment for parish council-owned trees, and it was suggested the parish clerk be given delegated powers to authorise any emergency tree work.

Linton councillors approved the accounting and annual governance statements for 2012/13 to be presented with the accounts for audit.

At the annual parish meeting, on the same day, chairman Roger Hickford presented cheques for grants to some representatives of local charities, including the village hall £3,700; Action in the Community for the Elderly £3,500; Beacon Community Trust for Youth Support £10,450; Linton Cricket Club £500; Suffolk Accident Rescue Service £250; Magpas £600; Linton Music Society £500; United Reformed Church £800 and St Mary's Parochial Church Council £800. Grants were also made to Cambridgeshire County Council for the summer reading challenge £200 and Linton parish charities £1,650.

The chairman's report advised work undertaken during the year on parking in the recreation ground; upgrading the CCTV system in the pavilion; the possible compulsory purchase of land for allotments; the installation of a 20mph speed limit in High Street, Linton, and the one-way system.

The meeting also heard about David Walker's work on securing funds for new play equipment in the young children's play area; the partnership between the Beacon Trust, parish council and the village college for youth services and outreach work; changes to local bus services; improvements to funding and recognition of the heavy congestion on the A1307; tree planting grants; new low-cost housing projects and speed checks indicating severe speeding and rat-running through the village.

DEVELOPERS have unveiled the design for the new Haverhill Research Park.

It is hoped the 450,000 square feet of space will attract a variety of businesses to the town, from small start-ups to global players.

Carisbrooke Developments, who designed the new entrance, said it was based on a DNA helix – demonstrating the spark of creativity, research and innovation that they hope will be a feature of the park.

The signs are approximately 20 ft wide by 7 ft high and the carved lettering will be lit-up after dark.

Nic Rumsey, director of Carisbrooke Developments, said: "We want the town to be proud of its new development and for companies to be attracted to this location".

Fatal crash man denies driving dangerously

NICK KOSTOV

A MAN has denied causing the death of a father of two in a head-on road crash by driving dangerously.

Philip Graham, 30, of Quendon Place, Haverhill, is said to have crashed with a motorcycle last year, causing the death of Derek Foster.

A jury at Ipswich Crown Court heard the collision happened after Graham overtook another car on the brow of a hill on the B1054, between Boytons Lane and Water Lane, near Hempstead.

The vehicles allegedly crashed at 7.15am on July 4 last year as Graham was driving his Ford Fiesta from Haverhill to catch the train at Audley End.

Mr Foster, 37, of Winstanley Road, Saffron Walden, was travelling in the opposite direction on his Honda CBR 125 to his work in Haverhill.

Prosecutor Peter Gair told the court that Graham had pulled out to overtake another car where he was unable to see oncoming traffic because of the brow of a hill.

He added that following the crash, police discovered the speedometer of Graham's car was stuck at 55mph.

If Mr Foster had been driving at a similar speed, this would have given the two men less than two seconds to see each other before they crashed, Mr Gair said.

The court heard that Mr Foster, 37, suffered fatal injuries in the collision.

Graham has admitted driving carelessly but has pleaded not guilty to a different charge of causing death by dangerous driving.

When interviewed by police officers, Graham said he had been using the B1054 for about a year and considered he knew the road well.

After the death last year, Mr Foster's family paid tribute to him as "an uncomplicated and placid man".

In a statement, they added: "He loved nothing more than spending time with his wife, Rachel, and two beautiful daughters, Hannah and Esme aged 8 and 5 years."

"He was loved by many for his calmness and laid-back approach to life – his loss is immense and he will be sorely missed".

Mr Foster had come to the area after joining the Army at Carver Barracks in Wimbish, staying to work as a welder after he resigned from the Army.

WINNING PICTURE: Sisters Abbie and Beth Todd from Haverhill

A PHOTOGRAPH depicting the beauty of sisterly love has won a photographer a top prize.

Mark Ashworth has been crowned Portrait Photographer of the Year by the Click and Fresh group for the second year in a row.

The Burwell based photographer entered 12 images into the competition, four of which were shortlisted.

The winning photograph was a stunning black and white photo of Abbie and Beth Todd, two sisters from Haverhill, aged 7 and 15.

The session was bought as a gift for mum Samantha's 40th birthday, who was delighted to hear Mark had won the competition for a second year in a row.

The winning entry scooped Mark a number of prizes, including a new camera, and the lucky family were awarded £500 in cash.

Mark has been a professional photographer for almost 20 years, since he left college aged 18, and he founded Ashworth Photography in Burwell in 2005.

He said: "Winning last year was such a thrill.

"I had no idea I would win again. It was a complete surprise when my name was read out on the night."

Mark added that when it came to selecting the pictures for the competition, he had no doubt he should enter at least one of the sisters.

He said: "Abbie and Beth were so happy together and a real joy to photograph."

"We had a fabulous time and all the images were great. I love the connection as sisters in this image".

The prize was handed out at a prestigious ceremony in North London.

OPEN AT LAST: Jonathan Tengbe, circuit steward, cuts the red ribbon to open the new hall

Celebrations as church hall reopens at last

AFTER months of building work, the new hall at the Haverhill Methodist Church finally reopened on Sunday.

The building on Camps Road will be home to a number of community organisations every week, including a pre-school playgroup and a mums and toddlers group.

The opening of the hall marks the end of the first phase of the building works.

The old hall was extended last year when the Church acquired a small piece of land from the Ambulance Trust and a neighbour.

A second storey was also added to house two self-contained offices - but church officials said it is not yet known whether the money will be made available for this work to be finished.

Jonathan Tengbe, the circuit steward, did the honours on Sunday by cutting the red ribbon, before the congregation sat down for a meal.

Church Minister Rev Nigel Bishop was delighted the new hall was ready to be used, and added it had been a long time coming: "The building work went on for months and faced delays due to the weather."

"Now that the building has reopened we are very pleased to offer a much more contemporary and comfortable space for the community groups who meet there."

Tax blunder – but residents will not be getting refund

BY NICK KOSTOV

COUNCIL chiefs have admitted overcharging residents for council tax in Linton – by almost £10,000.

The council was given a grant by South Cambridgeshire district council which should have been deducted from its precept request, but was not.

Officials have decided the best way to deal with the error is not to refund the money but to use it to fund community projects in Linton.

The amount overpaid for the average household in the parish is £5.88.

Sue Parry, the Linton parish council clerk, said residents had been overcharged because of an administrative error but sending out revised council tax bills would cost around £8,000.

She added: "The council has decided the best value option to mitigate the error is to spend the money on additional community projects and not on normal council business.

"We welcome your ideas and suggestions on how you would like this money to be spent for the benefit of the village".

Mrs Parry has urged people to contact her with ideas at the parish council office, or by email at lintonpc@btconnect.com.

Where are Mr and Mrs Meadowlark?

THE search is one to find this year's Mr and Mrs Meadowlark.

All young people aged between 9 and 15 who either live or go to school in Kedington are invited to a black tie evening to be held at the Kedington community centre on May 17.

Children entering the contest will be given VIP treatment – including a walk down the red carpet, interviews and snaps with the local paparazzi.

Mr and Mrs Meadowlark will need to be between the ages of 12 and 15 and their two attendants will be between 9 and 11 years old.

The decision was taken to include a boys' contest this year and – perhaps unsurprisingly – more boys have applied for the prestigious roles than girls.

Organisers were keen to stress the competition is not a beauty pageant, and they want young people who win because they are worthy in their own right. Annabel Spicer, events manager, said: "We are not looking for someone who is just pretty and good at everything."

ADVERTISING FEATURE

"We want someone who has achieved something, maybe someone who struggled at a subject but got a good grade, who lost weight, or who helped someone during difficult times".

A panel of judges will choose the winners, and they will be crowned by last year's winner, Aimee McGuire, 13.

All young people in the village are encouraged to come to the evening even if they don't enter the competition.

The theme is "Best of British" and there will be all the traditional games associated with a village fete, including mini golf, tin can alley and many more.

The evening traditionally takes place the month before the village festival, held on the Meadow every year, because the winners for the contest open the festivities.

This year the festival will be held on June 15 and the winning girls will get their hair done at Sonia's, their dress fitted by Amanda Couture and their nails painted by C&B Beautiful.

The evening will start at 7pm on May 17 at the community centre and all the money raised will be for the community centre.

Tickets can be purchased in advance for £3.50 from the village butchers or the spa, or on the night for £4.50.

To apply to be Mr or Mrs Meadowlark or their attendants, please email annabel.spicer@gmail.com.

Unhappy birthday

NICK KOSTOV

BIRTHDAYS are supposed to be fun.

But Stephanie Anslow, who was 21 on Tuesday, will not be looking forward to her next one after this year's events.

She woke up feeling ill and had time to fall out with a friend before her misery was compounded when her stationary grey Volkswagen was hit by a council van.

Karen Smart, the mother of Stephanie's boyfriend, had taken her shopping to buy a new dress and a jacket for her special day.

Because Karen had broken her heel, the pair parked on Haverhill High Street.

While Stephanie was in the changing room, she heard a loud bang.

She rushed out with the crowd to see the back window of her car had been smashed.

"I thought it had hit someone else's car but when I rushed out I couldn't believe it - everyone was just standing around my car.

"The back window was completely smashed".

Perhaps predictably, the dress she bought didn't fit and the restaurant she ate at didn't have a vegetarian menu.

After a hefty dose of cough medicine, Stephanie said she cut her losses by going to bed at 9pm.

"It was by far the worst birthday I've ever had," she said.

A spokesperson for St Edmundsbury council said: "We are really sorry that this happened on the lady's birthday.

"We will be investigating how the accident occurred".

MISSION: 'I know I can do it. It's just a matter of time. And time is not on my side...' says T Sandeman-Charles

'If I don't hit my target, I won't be able to die happy'

T Sandeman-Charles is dedicating the rest of her life to persuading 10,000 people to register as organ donors. Lisa Millard meets her – and signs up on the spot

TIME is a precious commodity, as T Sandeman-Charles knows only too well.

The clock is ticking for T, who is on a mission to secure 10,000 people to register as organ donors before she dies. Her Save5 campaign has 6,558 names to date but T really wants another 3,442 people to sign up, and fast. You see T, who is only 52, has two deadly lung diseases and is now on the transplant list. With her health deteriorating, T requires an oxygen tank to be able to talk and walk.

"I don't think about what I've got," says the petite T (short for Teresa) from the sun-filled lounge of her Arkesden home, near Saffron Walden. "Why focus on my illness when there are much more important issues to focus on? Save5 has kept me going through all the highs and lows. It is the one thing that I really have to achieve before I die. And if I don't, I will just not be happy with myself when I die. I can see it. I will be there, dying, and thinking 'I just should have done it'. It's that important. I know I can do it. It's just a matter of time. And time is not on my side."

Speaking has, in recent months, become an effort and T is constantly short of breath. Despite the difficulty, T speaks eloquently, with consideration, and her honesty and directness about such a difficult topic is humbling. Her strength of mind does not, however, mean she is without feelings; as T explains the task in hand her voice wavers with emotion and her eyes glisten.

I worry that her commitment to the campaign is adding a burden to an already heartbreaking situation. Isn't coping with the daily and debilitating symptoms enough?

"The wonderful thing about Save5 is that I don't think about what I've got. If we can save a few lives it is the most brilliant thing we could do in our entire lifetime. Why focus on an illness when I can do so much more?"

It was her sister Sue, who lives in London, who gave T the resolve to start the campaign. "I had a lung biopsy in 2009 and Sue was having an operation to donate one of her kidneys to a friend at the same time. I just kept saying to myself, 'Sue has saved somebody's life. What can I do?'"

"The pivotal moment was sitting at Papworth Hospital, being injected with steroids and tears were rolling down my face. I wasn't crying because of the pain. I just thought of the three families who were Save5 is at www.save5.org.uk and see Facebook – Save5 and Twitter @save5lives. Simply click on the Video Appeal on the website to watch T's video. If you have a Donor Card this does not mean you will be on the NHS database so you need to register as an organ donor. The Save5 link takes you to the NHS organ donation register. If you register at Save5, please follow the link to send T an email confirming your actions. It is only with this email that T will know Save5 has secured one more registered donor.

DETERMINED: While her own life hangs in the balance, T is campaigning to register 10,000 organ donors grieving every day because their loved one died. Three people die each and every day because they are one organ short of life. I just said, 'T, this cannot go on and you have to do something about it.'

Save5 was launched on March 18, 2010. 'I saw all these poorly people at Papworth and thought you've got to give them a chance. You don't know who will need a transplant. Three years ago I thought I was healthy. I could walk and eat. Three years later my life depends on a transplant. And it could happen to anybody.'

T has organising fibrosing pneumonia, which causes the alveoli, little air sacs in the lungs, to thicken, preventing them inflating and allowing oxygen into the bloodstream. She also has idiopathic pleuroparenchymal fibroelastosis. The latter is rare – only eight people, including T, had the condition at the time of her diagnosis in 2009. The rarity of this disease adds a twist of uncertainty to T's prognosis. When I ask her what time she may have left, if the transplant does not happen, she says she just doesn't know.

While her days are dedicated to increasing the number of registered organ donors, T wants her own transplant. Her bag is packed, she wants the phone to ring and for Papworth Hospital to tell her it's time. 'I want to live,' she says. 'Imagine what I could do with a new set of lungs?'

She is realistic about her chances. 'I have one chance. I may not get it. But at least I have a chance. We just hope that one day a call comes through.'

T also understands the odds stacked against it happening. 'There are so many myths surrounding organ donation. The biggest one is that when people sign up to be an organ donor they think they will become an organ donor. Sadly it is not the case because, in the vast majority of cases, you have to die in an intensive care unit on a ventilator having been in a major traffic accident, or had a brain injury, or had a stroke, before your organs can even be considered for transplantation. You are much more likely to need a transplant yourself than ever becoming a donor.'

'Do you know what the saddest thing is? 97 per cent of the population say they would take a transplant to save their lives but only 30 per cent are signed up to be a donor. Don't you think we'd better get that sign-up rate to 97 per cent too?'

There's ongoing debate about making changes to donor and family consent in a bid to raise the current 55 per cent (of family consent to donation) to 80 per cent. Legislation set out in the Human Tissue Act 2004 gives responsibility to make that decision to a relative if they do not know the dead person's preference. Some are calling for presumed consent, making organ donation 'opt-out' rather than the current 'opt-in' system, but not everybody agrees, including T.

'I believe, personally, when the specialist nurse has to approach the family, it is easier for them to be told their loved one signed up to be an organ donor. It was their wish. If the subject has never been discussed, I think the family is put in a hideous position. That's why I want people to sign up and tell their family 'This is what I want to happen'.

'It's a hard decision for some people to make, to let their mum, dad, daughter or son be a donor. But I've spoken to many bereaved parents and they say it is the one thing they hold on to.'

Among the darkest times there are glorious moments and T's cup is always much more than half full. 'You pick up on things you wouldn't normally pick up on. You take nothing for granted. You appreciate all the little things. You see people at their best.'

When T speaks about her husband, Roy, who gave up work to care for and spend time with her, the tears flow freely. 'You don't get more generous or kinder than that. He's given up everything. It's just so humbling. I just couldn't do without him. He does everything for me, dresses me, puts me in the bath. You couldn't love anyone more than I love him. He's just the most incredible man and I am just the most fortunate person.'

T is now too poorly to take her campaign out into the wider world. She no longer has the strength or breath to address groups or stand in supermarket foyers distributing Save5 leaflets. Sadly the amount of people signing up has slowed because, as T knows, her message is more powerful coming from her. 'I have made a video and sent the link out but, understandably, it's easy for people to ignore,' she sighs. 'Whenever I get a sign-up it puts such a smile on my face. I'm one step closer to reaching my goal.'

Just spend a couple of minutes in this woman's company and you will be convinced. I for one have signed-up to Save5, and hope some people who read T's story here will take time to watch her video and think about joining the register. But time is short and every minute counts.

Building society reveals record assets of £1.2b

SAFFRON Building Society, the largest independent building society serving the East of England, has announced record assets of £1.2 billion for last year, up 11% on 2011.

The mutual building society also reported that pre-tax profit was down to £1.4m from £1.8m in 2011, mortgage balances were up by £79m or 10.4% and savings balances were up by £109.5m or 11.1%.

CEO Jon Hall, speaking after the AGM at the Imperial War Museum, Duxford, said: "It was great to announce that Saffron is still the largest independent building society in the East of England and that we could report another year of profit and a significant growth in Saffron's assets, now over £1.2 billion."

"It was also really encouraging to see such a great turn out and so many members at this year's meeting. For me, the AGM typifies how being regionally-based allows our members to keep up-to-date, stay involved with what we're doing and have a say on how the society is run.

"It enables us to have a direct conversation with members and take on board suggestions made. Having that time with members is really important to me and all the directors here at Saffron."

"Going forward, we will continue to deliver high levels of service, offer assistance in branch and online and help more homeowners with their mortgage and savings needs."

The 164-year-old building society is owned by its 90,000 members and employs more than 120 staff across the region.

Its branches are located at, among others, Saffron Walden, Great Dunmow, Halstead, Haverhill and Royston.

Blogger sets new targets after win

SUCCESS: Sarah Gibbs, right, with Elaine Carr from the Best of Haverhill

A BLOGGER who was voted Britain's most loved interior designer has seen her business take off since she won the award.

Sarah Gibbs, 37, of Linton Place in Haverhill, was recognised at a ceremony at the Days Inn in February, and she has since been interviewed for a number of websites and specialist blogs.

For the first time last weekend, she was invited as a specialist speaker at an event – the opening of the new bar Wingspan in Bury St Edmunds – where she gave her first talk on interior design.

Sarah started her own interior design firm two and a half years ago.

She had been working for a kitchen design firm but wanted to branch out into bedrooms and bathrooms.

Her blog, on which she currently spends a few hours a week, gets more than 7,000 hits every month.

Sarah has now been approached by a magazine to write a column and said that as someone who wanted to be either a writer or a fashion designer when she was younger, it was the perfect job.

Visit Sarah's blog online at: <http://finishingtouchinteriors.blogspot.co.uk/>

Cool customers will be drawn to show stand

A DEPARTMENT store is encouraging people to get their skates on for charity.

Instead of its usual home furnishings stand, Glasswells, which has a furniture and flooring store in Haverhill, will bring a skating rink to the annual Suffolk Show at the end of the month.

Skating sessions will be held throughout May 29 and 30, with tickets at £5 each.

All profits will go to St Elizabeth Hospice, an independent charity that works to improve the lives of people living with progressive illness.

Robert Hawkins, operations director, said: "This year we wanted to do something different and instead of showcasing our furniture and home accessories we thought we would have some fun for all to enjoy whilst raising vital funds for a local charity."

"We are delighted to be supporting St Elizabeth Hospice who provide valuable care and support for those who need it."

The two-day event will be held in Trinity Park, Ipswich.

Going for gold

A BUSINESSMAN has published a booklet of his interview with David Gold, the colourful co-owner of West Ham United.

Robin Pilley, who owns CXG Property Services in Haverhill, interviewed Mr Gold last year and Mr Gold was so pleased with the final product he decided to sell it in the club shop.

To help promote it there were signing days at the club's ground and at its flagship London store at Lakeside.

Robin said: "Mr Gold's story is a remarkable one. It is a triumph over adversity and is an inspiration to everyone as it truly demonstrates that no matter what your beginnings are your dreams really can come true if you persevere."

A total of 1,500 copies of the booklet were printed.

MAY might have finally provided some much needed sunshine – but if you have the chance to be transported to the Caribbean, you can't really say no, can you?

That's where Hue Boy comes in. Created by the tutti frutti theatre company, it's a colourful, interactive children's piece about a little boy who lives in a Caribbean village and has anxieties about being the smallest boy in the class. Based on the book of the same name, written by Rita Phillips Mitchell, Hue Boy might lack a bit of height, but he doesn't lack any sense of adventure. He sets out on a tour of his community to ask for advice, meeting everyone from his mum and grandmother, to the neighbour, the doctor and the wise man. Eventually he does start to feel better about himself and being a little on the small side, but you'll have to see it to find out why...

Wendy Harris, tutti frutti's artistic director, says: "The main idea behind the story is: it's fine to be who you are and what's important really is that you feel good about yourself."

"While [Hue Boy] is going along on that journey, he learns lots of important messages such as healthy eating, and exercise and walking tall and being proud of who you are."

"It's very much an episodic little journey where a young child has to problem-solve by working with his local community."

Packed full of audience interaction, the children are asked to get involved and help tell the story as it tumbles along. "At times during the story the children actually become Hue Boy," Wendy explains.

"Usually by the end of the show every child in the audience is desperate to get up and help!"

Aside from lively splashes of Caribbean music, a huge part of the show's charm is the staging. The audience sits on the floor beneath a giant, multi-coloured parasol. Wendy enthused: "It's also funny and entertaining; it's a very joyous piece, a very positive piece, you come out of it feeling very positive and uplifted. And I think the fact that the children actually participate in it, and get involved in it, they sort of take ownership of the play and leave walking tall."

Hue Boy* is at Cambridge Junction on Sunday at 10.30am, 12.30pm and 2.30pm. Suitable for 3-7-year-olds, tickets are £9 (£5 concession) from (01223) 511511 or www.junction.co.uk.

Estate of mind

APPARENTLY Glengarry Glen Ross, a Pulitzer Prize-winning, Tony Award-nominated show, will “grab you by the throat and punch you in the gut – but only after it has sucked you into its world”. An odd accolade you'd think, considering it's about real estate agents.

Written by American playwright David Mamet, it tracks two days in the lives of a crew of desperate Chicago real estate agents. And these guys are seriously desperate, willing to turn to any manner of insubrious act to get some undesirable developments off their hands, and scale the dizzy heights of success while they do it i.e. the office leader board table. Watch them scheme, lie and wrangle their way into deals, climbing over each other, exploiting customers and buying time with sob stories.

Put on by The Dryden Society (Trinity College's drama club) at the ADC, it's a chance to see a show famed for its verbal foulness and alacrity – The Guardian called it “thrilling” – and a piece that Al Pacino saw fit to star in during a recent theatre run in New York

(no, he won't be in Cambridge too, sigh – this is am dram, don't you know).

Expect pinstriped suits, 80s power chat and lots of macho posturing.

Star Trek Into Darkness (12A, 132 mins)
In 2009, director JJ Abrams propelled the foundering Star Trek franchise back to warp factor 10 with a sexy, action-packed revamp that took the worldwide box office by storm, outperforming the previous three films in the series combined.

For the sequel, Abrams returns with all principal cast to test the bonds of trust and friendship once again between gung-ho James T Kirk

Starfleet is rocked by a terrorist attack in London masterminded by John Harrison (Benedict Cumberbatch). Kirk, who has been stripped of his captaincy and now serves under his mentor, Rear Admiral Christopher Pike (Bruce Greenwood), becomes embroiled in the hunt for Harrison, reuniting him with communications officer Uhura (Zoe Saldana), navigator Pavel Chekov (Anton Yelchin), chief medical officer Dr Leonard McCoy (Karl Urban), chief engineer Montgomery Scott (Simon Pegg) and helmsman Sulu (John Cho).

Kirk, Spock and their academy friends race against time to stop Harrison from obliterating everyone and everything they hold dear, including beautiful Dr Carol Marcus (Alice Eve), but how much are they willing to sacrifice in the name of freedom?

Get a buzz and help bees

REPORTS that our bee population is at crisis point as numbers have been hit by bad weather and particularly long winters should prompt responsible gardeners to protect our bees by creating a prosperous environment for them.

Last year's annual survey by the British Beekeepers Association (BBKA) indicated an increase in losses of honey bees and the organisation is concerned that losses may be even greater this year if the long winter is anything to go by.

"Much longer winters mean that bees are potentially running out of stores," says Gill Maclean, BBKA spokeswoman.

Weather-related impacts such as cold spells affect colony development and queen-mating. Honey bees don't forage in very cold or wet weather, so their winter stores were depleted last year.

The honey bee is the only bee to maintain a colony throughout the winter, reducing its colony size in autumn and relying on its stores of honey to last it through the winter months when it is too cold for foraging or there is no forage available. Some colonies may have since been lost simply by running out of stores. However, gardeners can do their bit to help bees, says Maclean. "Planting the right sort of plant is important and try to plant in drifts. There are so many bee-friendly plants including thyme, oregano, mint and viburnum. Plant some trees for bees as well, including spring-flowering cherries, apples, plums and pears."

All blossoms are widely visited by bees including blackthorn, cherry, plum, damson and crab apple. Other trees that are widely visited are the horse chestnut for its nectar and sycamore for its pollen.

She also advises gardeners to set aside part of the garden as a decorative wildflower area which will be a magnet for bees, planting white and red clover, borage, thyme, bugle and other bee-friendly plants.

"Bees also need water, so you can do something like fill a pot lid with water and put stones in it and netting over it so that they can drink without falling in."

Gardeners should make sure they provide a succession of bee-friendly plants which will flower between February and November, to give bees the best chance of building up their stores.

by Hannah Stephenson

Last year, the Royal Horticultural Society (RHS) launched a guide as part of its Perfect for Pollinators initiative, listing more than 200 wildflowers, such as corncockle, teasel and wild parsnip, that provide plentiful pollen and nectar for pollinating insects. It advises gardeners to:

- Avoid plants with double or multi-petalled flowers, which may lack nectar and pollen, or insects may have difficulty in gaining access.
- Never use pesticides on plants when they are in flower.
- Where appropriate, British wild flowers can be an attractive addition to planting schemes and may help support a wider range of pollinating insects.
- Observe the plants in your garden. If you know of plants with blooms that regularly attract insects, let the RHS know.

- Choose flowers that bloom successively over the spring, summer and autumn, such as coreopsis, Russian sage or germander, in order to provide pollen and nectar resources to the native bees of all seasons.
  - Encourage bees by keeping honey bees yourself or allowing a beekeeper to place hives in your garden.
  - Provide nest sites for bumblebees: Bumblebee nest boxes can be purchased but they are often ignored by queen bumblebees.
- If you want to become a beekeeper, details of county beekeepers' associations and training courses can be seen on www.bbka.org.uk.

FeatureHOMES*Haverhill - £245,000

THIS modern family home is in Green Road on the popular Barnaby Way development in Haverhill, and benefits from having no onward chain.

The detached residence has accommodation including a living/dining room, cloakroom, kitchen, three bedrooms (with en suite to the master) and a family bathroom, and on the second floor there are two further bedrooms and a second bathroom. Outside there is a rear garden, a driveway and a single garage.

For more details, call Samuels on (01440) 708100.

Building plots at Boyton Woods

A RARE opportunity to create a truly unique home at Boyton Woods, on the northern edge of Haverhill, is on offer. Sitting alongside a wooded area off Ann Suckling Road are two building plots with outline planning consent for substantial, individually designed homes with large gardens.

Two of the four plots originally available have already been sold, and the purchasers are currently finalising their plans before obtaining detailed consent for these one-off houses. Building just four high quality homes on this site is the long held consensus of both the Town Council and the Chamber of Commerce. Robert Maidment, who has lived in Haverhill for some 35 years and been active in the town's development, said: "Haverhill needs to create more high quality homes to improve the range of housing available as well as to help improve the retail offer in the town centre. Ordinarily, these plots would have been zoned for higher density properties, but we believe the town must offer a better choice."

Your Homesnow Guide to Moving Home

Moving home can be a complicated business and in the hectic run up to the big day it is all too easy to forget something vital. The Homesnow team offers their readers this handy checklist to help avoid any major pitfalls. We suggest you tick them off as you go....

www.homesnow.co.uk

1 4-2 WEEKS TO GO:

- ☐ Packing – start packing and sorting through your belongings. Now is a good time to de-clutter and pack items rarely used. Make sure you have plenty of sturdy boxes, bubble wrap and sticky tape.
- ☐ Removal companies – get estimates from removal companies, checking that comprehensive insurance cover is available against damage or loss. Is there a packing and unpacking service? Confirm the date of your move with the firm you have chosen.
- ☐ Insurance – check on your home contents insurance policies to ensure that you are covered for the move, and covered at your new address.
- ☐ Utilities – make arrangements for your gas and electricity meters (plus water meters where relevant) to be read and all your appliances to be disconnected on the day of your move. Arrange to take over gas and electricity at your new address, and make sure that all appliances will be properly fitted, plumbed or connected.
- ☐ Telecommunications – Notify your telephone and broadband provider and ask them to make the necessary arrangements for a final account at your present address, and for taking over or installing telephone and broadband facilities at your new home.

- ☐ Post – Look into re-directing your post for a few months to make sure you receive all relevant correspondence.
- ☐ Children – Look into the possibility of your children, especially young children, staying with family or friends on the day of the move.
- ☐ Pets – Make arrangements for any pets to be booked into a cattery or kennels if required. Having your pets microchipped is a good idea and if already microchipped, have the address changed to your new one. Your vet can advise on this.

2

Change of address – tell companies and organisations that you are moving!

Notify:

- ☐ Employer
- ☐ Inland revenue
- ☐ Local council
- ☐ Banks or Building Societies
- ☐ Credit companies, store cards & other accounts
- ☐ Gas, Electricity and water boards
- ☐ Insurance companies
- ☐ Land / mobile phones
- ☐ Internet and cable / satellite TV providers
- ☐ Doctor, Dentist and Opticians
- ☐ DVLA
- ☐ Veterinary surgery
- ☐ TV Licensing

3

1 WEEK TO GO:

- ☐ Delivery address – change delivery address of your Cambridge News, milk, groceries and fuel to your new address as appropriate.
- ☐ Laundry – do any last minute laundry that you can – have you arranged for a plumber to disconnect your washing machine correctly?

- ☐ Kitchen cupboards – go through your kitchen cupboards and throw out anything not in date. Also check that all jars and bottles are correctly sealed before packing.

- ☐ Fridges / Freezers – empty and clean out in preparation for moving. If you are moving a freezer and its contents, turn it up to maximum for a couple of days before you move.

- ☐ Valuables / documents – put these in safe place for moving day

4 2-1 DAYS TO GO:

- ☐ Packing – pack a bag for overnight essentials and toiletries and finish all remaining packing into boxes. Remember to label which room each box is destined for.

- ☐ Snack box – pack a box for the kitchen to include essentials like tea, coffee and sugar, as well as the kettle and mugs! Also include other snacks as necessary.

- ☐ Dismantle and disconnect – take down curtains, fixtures and fittings and disconnect white goods ready for transport.

- ☐ Outdoor items – make sure that these are stacked together and ready to be moved.

- ☐ Mobile – place your mobile on charge the night before moving and ensure that all relevant people have your number.

5 ON MOVING DAY:

AT YOUR OLD ADDRESS:

- ☐ Strip beds and pack bedding and nightclothes.
- ☐ Finish packing toiletries box.
- ☐ Direct removal firm personnel or friends helping you move as to what needs to be done.
- ☐ Turn off electric appliances.
- ☐ Disconnect cooker.
- ☐ Turn off boiler / central heating.
- ☐ Turn off water.
- ☐ Read gas meter.
- ☐ Read electricity meter.
- ☐ Secure all windows.
- ☐ Lock all doors.
- ☐ Make final checks and leave key as arranged with new owners.

AT YOUR NEW HOME:

- ☐ Open up & have a look around the new house.
- ☐ Locate fuse box, gas and electric meter and stop cock for reference.
- ☐ Take readings on gas, electric and water meters as appropriate.
- ☐ Organise the direction of boxes to appropriate rooms.
- ☐ Check the van after all is unloaded.
- ☐ Make the beds up for the evening.

Cool finish: Brandon Mackay scores the first for Haverhill Rovers under-13s against Hemingford.

Haverhill Rovers under-13s finished their season with a 4-3 win over Hemingford in Cambridge & District Colts League, Division 13C.

Rovers took the lead in the first half through Brandon Mackay, who converted a one-on-one, and it was 2-0 when Mackay's free kick was headed in by Makenzie Brown.

Hemingford started the second half well and levelled within 10 minutes, but Rovers were back in front when winger Euan McGinley found the net.

With less than 10 minutes to go

Mackay wins it in last minute

Hemingford equalised again, but Rovers did not settle for a draw and, with a minute left, Kameron Barker's free kick was headed goalwards by Mackay, only for a Hemingford player to handball it. Mackay himself dispatched the penalty with the last kick of the match.

Luke Stearn struck twice to take his tally for the season to 19 and Callum Williamson got one as Thurlow followed up reaching their first cup final – the Hillsborough Cup – by winning 3-0 against Papworth Blasters in 16B.

■ Jordan Chipps hit a treble as Aztecs White triumphed 6-2 against Plantation in Cambridgeshire Mini Soccer League, Division 9D.

Freddie Hounsborne bagged a brace and Bart Purser netted one to complete the scoring.

Finley Plant grabbed the only goal as West Wrattling won 1-0 against Camborne in 11B.

Matt's the way to make history!

HAVERHILL Blackjacks notched up the first win in their history as an impressive pitching display from Matt Schellhaas, with 14 strikeouts, propelled them to a 16-7 win at Tonbridge.

They took a 2-0 lead after the top of the first inning, Schellhaas and Ryan Pflugh scoring thanks to Tommy Opal's hit, but were pegged back to 2-2 after Tonbridge had batted.

They added another run to make it 3-2 in the second inning, Steven Esdale scoring on Steven Phillips' double, but Tonbridge took a 4-3 lead before the Blackjacks were next at bat.

Schellhaas and Opal, the latter thanks to Paul Warner's hit, made it 5-4 to Haverhill after the third inning, when some good play from the Blackjacks saw them retire the first three batters that came up for Tonbridge.

A single run by Phillips made it 6-4 with Tonbridge again having their first three batters retired; the fifth inning was scoreless for both sides, Schellhaas striking out the three batters he faced.

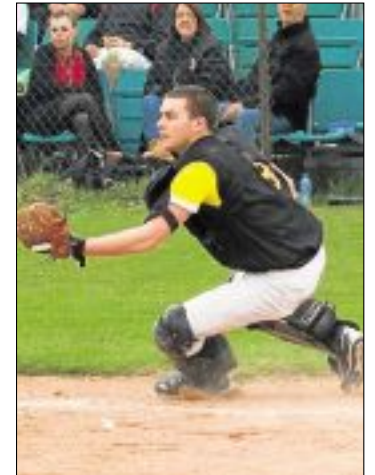

Schellhaas scored thanks to Opal to make the score 7-4 at the top of the sixth inning, Tonbridge scoring twice to make it 7-6 going in to the seventh, which was scoreless.

A replacement pitcher was introduced for Tonbridge and they fell behind 11-6 in the eighth inning, Phillips, Sebastian Schmidt, Schellhaas and Pflugh scoring for the Blackjacks, before their opponents failed to score in their half of the inning.

Haverhill put plenty of space between them and Tonbridge by scoring five runs in the top of the ninth inning, Esdale, Phillips, Schellhaas, Pflugh and Opal all making it round the bases.

A home run by Gareth Nutt for Tonbridge was the only real blip for the Blackjacks in the closing stages.

Ruthven ruthless in victory pursuit

JOSH Ruthven batted Haverhill under-15s to a CYCA league victory over Sawston.

Sawston made 128 for 7 in their 20 overs, with Sam Street taking 3 for 26 in four overs and Ben Eames 2 for 19 in three.

Haverhill openers Ruthven and Will Bailey picked up where they left off in their previous match, when they put on 152, until Bailey was bowled for 23. The run-rate then dried up, leaving the visitors 55 for 1 after 13 overs.

Two more Haverhill wickets fell in the 14th over, bringing in Eames to join Ruthven, and the pair began to take charge, finding the boundary at regular intervals.

With 32 needed off three overs, three consecutive fours from Ruthven in the penultimate over switched momentum. And they went on to win by seven wickets with three balls to spare, with Ruthven undefeated on 64 and Eames on 22.

The newly formed Haverhill under-14s were narrowly beaten by Fulbourn in their opening match of the season.

The side, featuring a mixture of ages ranging from U15 girls to U12 boys, were put in to bat and totalled 103 for 5 off their 20 overs, with Patrick Meadows contributing 17 and Marcus Richards 14.

Haverhill's bowlers got off to a flying start with Thomas Baker and Richards dispatching both Fulbourn openers for ducks.

The Fulbourn wickets continued to fall, but the No 6 batsman was a class above and made 40 not out to steer his side to 104 for 8 in the 18th over.

Haverhill under-11s were too strong for Dullingham in their Borders Junior League match.

Dullingham batted first in the pairs format match and posted 225. Zak Bailey was the pick of the Haverhill bowlers with 3 for 0 off two overs.

Haverhill finished on 277 in reply, with Alexander Parker making 17 not out.

Tri stars: Mandy Bunn and Jack Tappin. CP

Tappin and Bunn show they have an iron will

TWO Haverhill Running Club athletes showed their versatility by competing in Sunday's Big East Triathlon.

Jack Tappin and Mandy Bunn took on the half-ironman distance consisting of a one-mile swim, 52-mile cycle and half-marathon at Bradwell-on-Sea, Essex.

Tappin, competing at the distance for the first time, completed the swim in 52min 29sec, the cycle in 3hr 4min 58sec, and the run in 2:13m.47. His overall time was 6hr 19min.

Bunn, representing West Suffolk Wheelers and Tri Club, completed the swim in 38.50, the cycle in 2:53.06 and the run in 1:52.56 for an overall time of 5:32.02.

Out of the 116 entrants, four failed to finish inside the cut-off times and 15 dropped out of the race.

"It was a really tough race and the calibre of the athletes competing in it was really high," said Tappin, 25. "It was a baking hot day and by the time I got to the start of the run I was too drained to manage my normal pace."

After the first of two rounds played over two days, Scott Turner led the field with 76-13-63 on countback from Andrew Pordage with Alan Carter a shot back with the lowest gross round of 72-8-64.

Bligh, lying fifth overnight, got off to a storming start on day two with a sequence of birdie, par, birdie, eagle and ended with 72-6-66.

His total of 67+66=133 was enough to trim his handicap to five and win by three shots from Carter (64+72=136) with Steve Piotrowski 67+71=138 third.

Carter's handicap was cut by a shot to seven and Piotrowski's by two to 13.

Haverhill's Ladies' team lost 4-1 against a strong Rushmere side in their first Weston Cup match of the season. They next play The Suffolk on May 22.

Duncan Watson carded a superb nett 65, reducing his handicap by two shots to 22, to win the Men's Midweek Medal.

Dellar's ton of fun

A SUPERB century from Adam Dellar gave Haverhill their second victory of the season against previously unbeaten Maldon in the Marshall Hatchick Two Counties Championship, Division One, on Saturday.

The home side won the toss and chose to bat, and Joe Woodley became the first bowler to dismiss overseas star Jamie Glenn this season when he bowled him for 19.

But that was as good as it got for a while as Maldon batsmen Harris and Elliot built a fine partnership as they reached 154 for 1 off 36 overs.

Simon Youngs then ran out Harris for a fine 62, causing a collapse of horrendous proportions as the home side slipped from 154 for 2 to 175 all out. Brilliant bowling from Nigel Brunning (11-2-32-4) and Anthony Phillips (12-2-46-3) left Maldon in tatters, helped by good catches from Luke Youngs, Dan Pass and Brunning himself.

The early loss of Dan Pass (7) and Amit Gupta (10) saw Haverhill at 35 for 2 after eight overs but Luke Youngs joined Dellar and the pair set about rebuilding the innings.

Dellar punished anything loose and reached his century off 80 balls with 19 fours and a six.

He was eventually out for 103 with 33 still needed but Kyle Blanchard joined Youngs and the duo knocked off the remaining runs, Youngs ending on 38 not out.

Captain Simon Youngs said: "Adam was at his best today and you could tell how much it meant to him.

"It was the best innings I have seen from anyone in a Haverhill shirt for many years.

"Luke batted brilliantly again as he did last week and the two lads (Nigel & Anthony) who bowled them out are now making a huge reputation around the league for themselves.

"It's great Joe Woodley has stepped up so far this season and with him getting their top player out early made a huge difference."

In the Tucker Gardner Cambs & Hunts Premier League, Weston Colville lost by 95 runs at home to Eaton Socon.

Socon put 250 for 8 on the board, before removing Colville for 155, with Matt Rawling taking 5 for 18, including taking the crucial final wicket of Adie Westley, who had been injured in the field, with just three balls remaining.

In the CCA Senior League, Division One, Chris Gilthorpe and Mark Roberts tore Horseheath to shreds as they lost to Kimbolton & Catworth.

The opening bowlers tormented the hosts' batsmen from the off and removed them for a mere 51 in 15.1 overs.

Gilthorpe bowled four maidens on his way to figures of 6 for 10, while Roberts bagged 4 for 36, with Martin Giles (16) and Gary Ellis (11) the only men to reach double figures.

Kimbolton were biting their nails as Ben Piper, who ended with 3 for 26, removed their top three batsmen for ducks, but they reached 52 for 5.
